Artikel info:-

On this year's legendary Fightplace Christmas party things got a little out of control. Tony was after a short time completely in his element(possibly due to alcohol consumption) with posing and talking trash. He annoyed any guest to challenge everyone for a match. But first the boys wanted to party. They popped corks and had fun with champagne, music and talking. But Tony still annoyed them with his muscle posing and douchey talking. There was only one way. Tony needs to be put in the right place. So a few of the guests are accepting Toni's challenge and are moving to the fighting room. One after one Tony wanted to beat Bob, Moe and Hardy. So the first one was Bob. This match took about 24 minutes and was very hard and brutal. The opponents hate each other and they wanted to beat up the other one. We got the expression that everyone was against Tony and this was his own fault. Bob was totally mad this evening and he performed a fight like we have never seen before: he got skill and is able to fight on the same level with Tony, even if he has way more experience. It was just the luck, which decided who could win this fight, gaining the victorious grab to force the opponent to capitulate. Hardy and Moe were waiting in the background and watched the two guys performing a real submission-match. Moe was the next one, who fought Toni. He is way smaller and more graceful. So everybody knew that he had no chance against Toni. But this fight of our youngster was just insane and everyone was surprised about this. He was able to tolerate every single grab of Toni without giving up. Instead of this he bore up against the pain in this extremely hard positions. He still tried to fight him. All of the spectators stood up to root Moe. He got tips and tricks to counter his opponent. Even the cameraman tried to give him some advices and Moe was able to get free of some grabs. Just amazing and well done! On this year's legendary Fightplace Christmas party things got a little out of control. Hardy, supported by his friends, knows that he has to fight very hard to win this match. So the last fight of the evening, about 20 minutes, became a submission fight.
